

Overview

Are you an engineer with a passion for the environmental sector and would like to start your career gaining experience abroad? If so, the PANGEO programme is perfect for you. As a group we employ around 60 PANGEO graduates every year, 76% of which speak at least three languages. At the end of the programme we go on to employ around 70% of those who have been on PANGEO assignments. 670 employees have participated in the PANGEO program since 2004.

We are recruiting water, waste treatment and energy engineers and specialists (including design and process, mechanical or civil engineering) for design and process studies, construction projects, operation and sales assignments, and to participate in our development. We are also looking for candidates with a financial, legal or purchasing background for assignments in support functions within our local entities all over the world. Our programme is open to all Masters and PhD graduates.

We are also looking for candidates with a financial, legal or purchasing background for assignments in support functions within our local entities all over the world. Our programme is open to all Masters and PhD graduates.